Form 990 - Organization's Mission

Dup15q Alliance empowers individuals living with Dup15q Syndrome and other related rare diseases to reach their full potential by advancing breakthrough research and life-changing therapeutic treatments, supporting families affected by Dup15q, and promoting advocacy.

We envision a world where families, clinicians, and advocates enable individuals with Dup15q to live full and productive lives. We serve as the leader in research, advocacy, and clinical standards of care for Dup15q Syndrome, and are often the first point of contact for families searching for information and resources regarding their child's diagnosis.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a - First AccomplishmentProgram: Scientific and Clinical Initiatives

The Dup15q Alliance stands at the forefront of collaborative efforts with stakeholders in academic, clinical, and pharmaceutical spaces. In 2023-24, we co-funded a grant of $100,000 with Cure Epilepsy on a project aiming to develop a new representative Dup15q mouse model with varying levels of UBA3E (gene), a valuable tool for studying the syndrome and testing potential therapies. We orchestrated a longitudinal research project during our 2023 Family Conference using follow-up data collection and biological samples in an ongoing study of Dup15q changes over time. We provided an additional $38,500 to the Newborn Screening Project, which aims to add multiple chromosome-15 conditions to Early Check, a screen for a variety of conditions at birth. With UPenn Medicine Orphan Disease Center, we raised nearly $50,000 for a project focused on understanding the molecular pathways involved in nervous system development and function in mice, particularly in the context of autism spectrum disorders, providing valuable information that can help design therapeutic strategies. This year we also provided over $106,000 for the growing LADDER Learning Network, which hosts a global network of patient data, connects providers to share vital information, and connects pharmaceutical professionals with locations to host clinical trials, with the benefit of having patients in place when trials become available. Currently, the 16 US and 2 International Dup15q Clinics in the Network connect families with highly specialized medical providers in a variety of fields who have extensive experience treating this rare disorder. This collaboration with the Angelman Syndrome Foundation allows us to expand our clinical footprint, improve access to care, and bring together a larger group of medical and research professionals around the world.

Several popular breakout sessions were offered, including age- and relationship-specific support groups and round-table discussions with researchers. 102 individuals with Dup15q Syndrome attended at no cost and had the opportunity to experience our welcome parade, participate in activities
